Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed September 23, 2005 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2), which requires a legible copy of each cited foreign patent document; each non-patent literature publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and all other information or that portion which caused it to be listed. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: there are no headings throughout the specification, e.g. Brief Description of the Drawings, etc. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 6 and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gibson. Gibson teaches a cabinet (Fig. 1) with a display screen therein. The cabinet having a front part with an opening for the screen, a rear part (14) and fastening means (16 located on a lower portion of the front panel) for fastening the parts together.

One portion of each fastening means includes a resilient member (24) that is manually accessible from an outside portion out the cabinet; a portion of the resilient member is positioned outside the cabinet but still substantially invisible when viewing the cabinet (see Fig. 4 wherein the opening in 32 makes the outside angled portion of 24 part of the outside of the cabinet). The other of the portions (26) of the fastening means includes a recess for insertion of the resilient member (see Fig. 2B). Furthermore, the top side of the front and rear parts includes snap-in fastening means (top members 16; see Fig. 1).

Claims 1-4, 6 and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by 10 Goto et al. Goto teaches a cabinet (Figs. 2A,2B) with a display screen therein. The cabinet having a front part (1) with an opening for the screen, a rear part (2) and fastening means (4,6) for fastening the parts together. One portion of each fastening means includes a resilient member (4) with a recess (4a) that is manually accessible from an outside portion out the cabinet; a portion of the resilient member is positioned outside the cabinet but still substantially invisible when viewing the cabinet (see Fig. 5 wherein the opening in 10 makes the outside angled portion of 4b part of the outside of the cabinet). The resilient members are attached to a side wall (3) that is directed downwardly, i.e. toward the support of the cabinet. Furthermore, the opposing portion of each of the fastening means includes a protrusion (6a) insertable into the recess of the resilient member.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Janet M. Wilkens whose telephone number is (571) 272-6869. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Thursday.
